Gallatin Undergraduate Rationale: The new-human problem

Abhi Agarwal

The new-human problem. Suppose a new-human appeared on an island. The new-human is as perfectly capable of learning, reasoning, and viewing the world as we are. The new-human problem is to

It's been pointed out by many researchers in the field of Artificial Intelligence that machines with general intelligence will 'something' within this century.